

Overview

Privacy issues and data protection breaches are making headlines across the world. The legal landscape has become more complex and navigating the local and international data security issues is fraught with challenges.

Our team regularly counsels local and international clients on compliance with privacy and data protection legislation. We provide legal guidance on all aspects of relevant legislation in the area, including data processing agreements, cross-border transfers of personal data, employment data treatment and data breach notifications. Our experience includes guiding many industry leaders on data privacy regulations and their implementation, compliance, training on privacy policies and privacy management programs.

Whether your company is local or international, rely on our Privacy and Cybersecurity team to offer legal solutions wherever you do business.

Representative Experience

- Multinational and local companies: Advising companies in sectors such as the pharmaceutical, publishing, on-line sales, travel insurance, airlines, and media, among others on privacy issues and how to implement changes internal to policies and manuals to fully comply with local regulations.
